

Verijero Argentinian Gaucho Knife, Bellver House In Tandil, Circa 1970

180 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Etat d'usage

Length : 29

Description

This Verijero-style knife is an iconic piece of Argentine silversmithing and Gaucho culture. It comes from the city of Tandil, the historical cradle of high-quality Argentine handcrafted cutlery. The steel blade is signed by the renowned cutler Bellver, guaranteeing traditional mid-20th-century craftsmanship. The handle and matching sheath are made of Alpaca (nickel silver), a noble alloy widely used by South American silversmiths for its robustness and silver-like luster. The whole piece features an elegant twisted design. The sheath is fitted with its original clip, adorned with a floral motif, for belt attachment. The word "ALPACA" is also stamped on this attachment. Traditionally used for daily tasks and meals, this small dagger is now a sought-after collector's item for its

Dealer

Galerie NAKKAYA

Art - Antiquités - Objets de Collection - Trésors oubliés

Mobile : +33 6 26 73 09 29

Clamart 92140

aesthetic appeal. The blade has a beautiful patina from use without any major structural damage.
An authentic piece of South American folk art.
Total length with sheath: 29 cm Knife length 26
cm Blade length 15 cm