Description

Antique 19th-century English porcelain tureen, manufactured by PJJ Mayer and Co., Longport, Staffordshire, England (1843-1850). A renowned English porcelain manufacturer of the period. A very large and beautiful piece with a matching tray decorated with Chinese scenes. The handles are stylized and gilded with period fine gold. The tureen is in excellent condition. There is a very slight, discreet crack on the lower rim of the stopper and a very small, equally discreet chip on the foot. A decorative piece in good used condition. (The photos also serve as part of the description.) A beautiful and prestigious collector's item, over 175 years old. Both the tureen and its tray are stamped with the manufacturer's mark. Shipping is in very good packaging, including bubble wrap and
