Description

A beautiful Comtoise clock in fir, late 18th - early 19th century, presented in its original solid fir case, typical of regional production in Franche-Comté. The case, simple and elegant, consists of a straight glazed top, a curved shaft, and a base with an overhanging plinth. The wood has a beautiful antique patina, attesting to its authenticity. The white enamel dial with Roman numerals is signed Cabuz, a clockmaker active in eastern France at the turn of the 18th and 19th centuries. It features period cut-steel hands. The repoussé brass pediment, richly decorated with floral and foliate motifs, is finely crafted and well-preserved. The iron and brass mechanism is equipped with a verge escapement, striking the hours and half-hours, and a lyre-shaped pendulum, characteristic of this period. A
