Description

Discover an exceptional piece: an authentic wood paneling designed to adorn a door, dating from the 18th century. This masterpiece, painted in oil on wood, is a true invitation to travel back in time, where art and elegance intertwine to enhance an interior. The central motif depicts putti, those angelic figures so beloved in Baroque and Rococo art, symbols of purity and joy. Their presence brings a touch of lightness and poetry to the whole, while recalling the refinement of period decor. The putti, often associated with mythology and religion, are portrayed here with great finesse, their delicate bodies and lively expressions capturing the very essence of 18th-century art. The artwork, framed in a rustic wooden frame, retains all its authenticity and old-world charm. Measuring 66 cm wide and 54.5
