Superb small Louis XIV style table in solid walnut from the first half of the 19th century. It consists of a thick top with chamfered corners and a molded edge. The apron is fitted with a drawer. The four baluster-shaped legs and the stretcher are typical of the Louis XIV style. This table from the Périgord region is narrow enough to potentially serve as a console table. Some minor restorations: drawer. The three planks forming the top are joined with wedges and pegs. Very fine work originating from the Périgord region. The piece is entirely pegged.
