Description

A 1960s Scandinavian dining set comprising an extendable table with a height-adjustable mechanism and four matching chairs. The table features tapered legs and clean lines characteristic of Northern European furniture of the period. The central mechanism, combining an integrated extension and height adjustment, is fully functional. The chairs, with vertical spindle backs, have removable seats attached by snaps, resting on original fabric webbing. A cohesive and elegant set, representative of quality Danish production from the 1960s. Good overall condition, with signs of wear consistent with age.
