Description

This Louis XVI style mirror captivates with the elegance of its sculpted frame and the richness of its ornamentation. Its rectangular glass is set within a molded frame with a burnished gilt finish, punctuated by a delicate garland of pearls and surmounted by a finely crafted scalloped frieze. The upper pediment celebrates the arts with a musical allegory sculpted in relief: a mandolin, flute, foliage, and small flowers intertwine in a harmonious composition, evoking the refinement of 18th-century salons. The upper corners are punctuated with hanging tassels, adding a touch of whimsy and movement to the whole. The Empire green painted background elegantly highlights the gilt wood and gives the piece visual depth. This mirror brilliantly combines the nobility of the materials, the finesse
