Description

Large framed mythological painting. Oil on canvas depicting Diana and her nymphs being surprised by Actaeon while bathing. Diana and her nymphs are shown naked, bathing in a pool in the middle of a rocky landscape surrounded by a forest. The goddess, leaning on a rock, wears a crescent-shaped diadem, her symbol. Two of her companions try to shield her from Actaeon's sight, covering her with a cloth. Actaeon is accompanied by two of his dogs. On the left of the painting, a pack of dogs is seen devouring a human with stag antlers on his head, a reminder of the punishment Actaeon suffers for seeing the goddess naked. Artwork dimensions: 108 x 85 cm. Framed dimensions: 125 x 99 cm. Unsigned. Circa late 17th century. Good overall condition with old restorations and some rubbing on
