Description

Imperial elegance and historical prestige

This refined pair of Empire chests, dating around 1810, represents a perfect example of high-quality early 19th-century furniture. Made from precious walnut, they convey solidity, balance, and formal rigor, typical elements of the Empire style. In excellent overall condition, they maintain an authentic charm that still enhances any interior with elegance and authority.

Noble materials and fine craftsmanship

The carefully selected walnut displays warm, deep grain, enhanced by a natural, even patina.

The Iranian marble tops, bright and refined, provide an elegant contrast while emphasizing the furniture's prestige. Thanks to meticulous craftsmanship, every detail is harmonious and well-proportioned, and the structure ensures stability and functionality. The drawers slide smoothly, further demonstrating the quality construction of the period.

Empire style: balance and presence

Empire style is distinguished by clean lines, symmetry, and a commanding but never excessive presence. These two chests create a perfect visual dialogue, ideal placed on either side of a console, bed, or in a large hall. They can also be used separately, offering great versatility. With dimensions of 124 × 58 × h 92 cm, they are substantial yet balanced.

Versatile and timeless furniture

This pair fits naturally into both classic and contemporary interiors. At the same time, it provides practical storage while combining beauty and functionality. Ideal for collectors, antique lovers, and anyone seeking a secure investment.

A valuable purchase

Choosing an authentic Empire piece means investing in history, quality, and uniqueness. This pair is therefore a prestigious acquisition, capable of retaining and increasing its value.
