Description

Mixed media on Hahnemühle paper. Signed lower left. Height: 40 cm - Width: 30 cm. The faun is a joyful figure, accompanying the procession of Bacchus, associated with simple pleasures, wine, dance, and love. Inspired by Roman mythology, this god of fertility, fields, and flocks wears a mask which, like Janus who presided over beginnings and transitions in Rome, represents the past while looking towards the future, establishing a dialogue between Classicism and Modernity. Céline Otero's work offers a timeless vision of humanity in which the line becomes simultaneously a tool for analysis, a space for projection, and a vehicle for emotions. A pure, spontaneous, and precise line serving the lightness of bodies in motion... of essential movement!
