Description

Art Deco vase "Ingrid with Bacchantes" attributed to Heinrich Hoffmann - Gablonz, circa 1930. Clear molded glass vase, decorated in high relief with a frieze of dancing female bacchantes, in the mythological style characteristic of Bohemian Art Deco. This model, known as Ingrid or Ingrid with Bacchantes, is attributed to the sculptor and glass designer Heinrich Hoffmann (1875-1938). It is part of the production of the Gablonz glassworks (Jablonec nad Nisou), an important center of glassmaking in Czechoslovakia during the interwar period. These models were distributed by various local publishers, notably those associated with Curt Schlevogt, often without a signature. The continuous relief decoration, the quality of the modeling, and the proportions correspond to
