60 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Width : 25mm

Height : 40mm

Description

An elegant antique brooch carved from dense, finely polished ebony, depicting a stylized fleur-de-lis, a symbol of elegance and tradition. The understated and balanced carving highlights the wood's natural volume and depth, resulting in a beautiful satin patina acquired over time. The back features an antique pin fastening, typical of 19th-century designs. This discreet and refined piece of jewelry reflects the tradition of adornments made from natural materials, prized in the 19th century, particularly for mourning or as accessories to bourgeois attire.
