Description

Pierre Cardin Chauffeur Watch - Jaeger Movement, 1960s-1970s. This vintage "chauffeur" watch from the Pierre Cardin fashion house is emblematic of 1960s-1970s watch design, a period during which the designer collaborated with Swiss manufacturers to create avant-garde timepieces. This model is distinguished by its angled case, allowing for a direct reading of the time without rotating the wrist, a characteristic of "chauffeur" watches, originally designed for driving. The watch is equipped with a Swiss Jaeger movement, renowned for its reliability and quality craftsmanship. It is in perfect working order. The original strap is present, although it requires reattaching, without compromising the watch's integrity.
