Description

We present a work of art of remarkable impact and singular originality: a modern sculpture of Saint Sebastian at the stake, created by an anonymous 20th-century sculptor. Far from traditional representations, this creation captures the essence of martyrdom with a bold and innovative artistic language. The sculpture is a masterful assembly of materials: applications of wood veneer on wood form the Saint's body, while skillfully applied burn marks highlight the anatomical parts, providing depth and drama. The artist chose to integrate 17th-century (1600s) iron nails, a detail that adds historical charm and a surprising tactile dimension, creating a dialogue between different eras. This is not just a sculpture, but a visual and conceptual experience. Its uniqueness and the choice of materials make it a
