Description

Louis Carrand (1822-1874) Lively Landscape by the Roadside Oil on canvas laid down on cardboard depicting a lively landscape by a roadside, alongside a house and its low wall. The scene is enlivened by the presence of three horses and figures, one of whom holds a red umbrella, adding a subtle touch of color to a palette dominated by deep greens, browns, and earthy tones. The composition is organized around the road, structuring the space and guiding the eye toward the rural architecture partially concealed by vegetation. The brushwork is free and expressive, with a textured finish characteristic of 19th-century naturalistic landscape painting. The work is signed lower left: "L Carand." Presented in a recent frame, with some visible chips. Dimensions: 40 × 33 cm Technique: oil on
