Description

Painting depicting Christ Crucified, oil on canvas, European painting, 19th century. Important sacred subject depicting Christ on the Cross, depicted full-length with strong anatomical detail and intense facial expression. The essential and solemn composition focuses attention on the body of the Redeemer, set against a dark background, in a style typical of devotional painting from the Baroque or late Mannerist periods. The brushstrokes are soft, with delicate chiaroscuro passages that shape the figure and accentuate its pathos. Particular attention is paid to the anatomy and the naturalistic rendering of the flesh. Condition: The painting shows signs of wear consistent with its age, such as creases and abrasions. Overall, the work maintains good legibility and a strong visual impact. Provenance:
