Description

Pair of 19th-century figurative vases, made in Montigny-sur-le-Loing porcelain, decorated with young peasants leaning against trumpet-shaped vases. The style is very European, typical of the 19th century, with a strong French influence. It is characteristic of the Romantic/Victorian period. Several notable features are worth highlighting: the figures are an integral part of the vase, a carefully crafted decorative piece, hand-painted in soft colors; the clothing and posture evoke an idealized rural life, very popular in the 19th century.
