Description

Rare electric table lighter "Karl Muller" from the late 19th century, early 20th century. Patent number N.29250. This table lighter is characterized by a walnut wood structure with a mechanism powered by an internal battery that generates an electric arc. The lighter is equipped with a small tank for gasoline and a wick. By removing the upper part inside, there is the electrical circuit powered by a battery, there is also a small transparent envelope with inside some original spare parts including a wick. The internal battery marked "Pertrix", which I assume is the original battery, has been drained and recharged with modern rechargeable batteries. In doing so, the lighter has been made functional. Rare collector's item in very good condition and functional. Dimensions: 17x15. H 15cm Tracked
