Description

This beautiful bronze sculpture, entitled Rebeca, Young Arab Girl, is an iconic creation by the French artist Gaston Leroux. It gracefully and authentically embodies an oriental water carrier, a theme dear to the artist, who captured the very essence of the Orient in his works. The quality of the casting is remarkable, and every detail has been meticulously chased, giving this piece exceptional finesse and elegance. Gaston Leroux, a renowned artist, taught at the École des Beaux-Arts in Bordeaux and regularly exhibited at the Salon des Artistes Français. His talent was recognized with bronze medals at the Universal Expositions of 1898 and 1900, attesting to his skill and artistic mastery. The inscription on the sculpture's base reads "Young Arab Girl, Second Medal at the Salon," a designation that
