Description

This elegant cut crystal carafe was produced by the renowned Cristalleries de Lorraine, a prestigious French glassmaking house celebrated for its high-quality crystal production during the late 19th and early 20th centuries. The carafe showcases a beautifully balanced silhouette, with a rounded body rising to a slender, gently flared neck and a finely shaped pouring lip, offering both visual harmony and functional ease.The crystal is richly cut with deep radial fluting and fan motifs, expertly executed to capture and refract light from every angle. These precise cuts create a enhancing the clarity and weight of the crystal while demonstrating the technical mastery for which Lorraine workshops were known. A faceted foot provides stability and adds an additional decorative element, while the elegantly curved handle is smoothly polished for a comfortable grip.A factory mark visible on the base confirms its origin, attesting to its authenticity and craftsmanship.

Originally intended for
