Description

A striking coffee table from the 1970s, showcasing the strength of the Brutalist movement and European Mid-Century Modern design. The tabletop features high-quality glazed ceramic tiles with a textured geometric relief. The overlapping concentric arc motif creates a dynamic visual effect, rendered in a quintessential 70s palette: ochre yellow, mustard, and olive green. The deep glaze offers a beautiful luster and excellent light reflection. The piece is supported by a robust wrought iron frame with a natural patina. The metalwork is particularly refined, featuring lyre-shaped legs joined by a twisted iron cross-stretcher, emphasizing its handcrafted and sculptural appeal. Condition: Excellent vintage condition. The ceramics are intact with no chips or cracks. The iron structure is perfectly stable
