Description

A solid oak pedestal desk dating from the 1940s, combining sturdiness, functionality, and authenticity. This Parisian piece, made by the Régy company, features six spacious drawers, perfect for organizing your documents and office supplies. The three top drawers are equipped with working locks and keys. The wooden handles, the raised details on the front, and the natural finish highlight the unique grain of the oak. In addition, this desk has pull-out slides on each side to extend the work surface. The Régy company plaque is located on the side of the desk. Its ideal dimensions for comfortable work and its vintage feel will make this desk a beautiful addition to your home. The Régy company in Paris appears to be linked to Edmond Régy, an Arts & Métiers engineer who left his mark on the early 20th
