Description

This large, solid oak center desk is distinguished by its robust structure and carved ornamentation reminiscent of the Gothic style, featuring floral motifs, delicate scrolls, and grotesques. Its rectangular top is surrounded by a carved frieze, lending the piece a majestic air. The front features five richly decorated drawers, some with compartments, offering both functionality and aesthetic appeal. Each drawer is equipped with a key and a working lock with a grotesque relief escutcheon. The twisted legs, a hallmark of this style, provide a harmonious balance between sturdiness and sophistication, while the finely crafted stretcher reinforces the overall design. This desk is a piece of furniture that testifies to the artisanal skill of the period, combining pragmatism with neo-Gothic
