A circular marquetry pedestal table, resting on four cabriole legs joined by a circular stretcher forming a lower shelf. The upper shelf is encircled by an openwork gallery of gilt brass, matching that of the lower shelf. The frieze opens with a drawer in the front, adorned with a bronze knob. The decoration is executed in floral marquetry, probably in rosewood or palisander veneer, with inlays of light wood (maple, boxwood, or fruitwood) arranged in floral and foliate motifs. The upper shelf features a centered radial design, while the uprights are decorated with marquetry foliate drops. It also features repoussé and chased brass mounts. Good overall condition, with wear consistent with age.
