Description

Peaceful riverside scene by Marguerite Bermond (1911-1991), watercolour dated 1945. Marguerite Bermond, born in Arles, studied at the École des Beaux-Arts in Nîmes before becoming a student of Édouard Georges Mac-Avoy at the Académie de la Grande Chaumière in Paris, and later joining the Académie Julian. Her painting, primarily done in her studio, did not, however, preclude a few trips abroad, which the dates inscribed on some of her works allow us to place in chronological order: Provence in 1954, the Netherlands (Amsterdam) in 1955, Normandy (Étretat), and Andalusia in 1963. Marguerite Bermond died suddenly in February 1991, a few days before the sale of her studio by auctioneer Claude Robert at the Hôtel Drouot, an event she was preparing for.
