Description

A superb and elegant 18th-century pastel depicting a woman wearing a headdress. This large pastel portrays a woman in a blue lace dress and an elegant, intricately worked lace headdress. She holds a jewelry box from which a pendant protrudes. There is a very slight trace of dampness in the lower right corner, but overall, the piece is of high quality with its original colors. The work is exquisitely detailed and presented in its original carved natural wood frame with period glass. A fine and decorative work, it captures a moment in history with its depiction of period clothing.
