

Gaul: Gallo-roman Fibula In The Shape Of A Hare/rabbit

300 EUR

Period : Before 16th century

Condition : Très bon état

Description

Gallo-Roman fibula in the shape of a hare.

Copper alloy nielloed with a silver-based mixture and tinned. Typical work from the Alesia region.

1st - 3rd century AD. 2.81 g 21.80 x 16.8 mm.

Missing the pin. Charming fibula whose tin layer, which was intended to imitate silver, is still clearly visible in places, which is rare for this type of fibula. A similar example is kept at the Alésia Museum (inv. no. 2004.1.494). RARE, especially with part of the tinning preserved.

Bibliography: Feugère, Les fibules en Gaule méridionale, de la conquête au Ve siècle ap. JC, Paris, CNRS, 1985, pp. 407-408, fig. 60 (variant

29a14b: cunimorphic fibula; a rabbit on the right, at rest, nielloed). Provenance: old collection from south-east France formed from the 60s.
