Description

Virgin Mary with the Child Jesus 19th-century
Neogothic porcelain biscuit statuette
The Christian faith, motherhood, frozen in the beauty of porcelain. Proudly erect, her son on the hip, the Holy Virgin Mary and her son, the Child Jesus stand on this porcelain pedestal, with a maternal and touching figure, they are represented in a neo-Gothic style, aiming to revive a medieval style which contrasts with the classic styles, more popular in the 19th century. The monogrammed initials M and A are intertwined on the front of the base of this porcelain biscuit group, they symbolize "Ave Maria", angelic greeting during the Annunciation of Mary. In good general condition, it is important to note that a few knuckles are missing from the raised hand of little Jesus blessing the crowd. But these defects are
