Description

Piero Fornasetti, desk set, ceramic and brass, signed, 1950s. The Fornasetti desk pen holder presented here is a refined Italian design object dating back to the 1950s, emblematic of Piero Fornasetti's ironic and cultured poetics. Made of black glazed ceramic with gold screen-printed decorations and completed with gilded brass elements, the object combines function and imagination in a perfect balance between art and utility. The rectangular base is richly decorated with an intricate graphic repertoire depicting drawing instruments, stationery, and creative tools, rendered with the usual precise and elegant stroke that characterizes Fornasetti's production. Two cylindrical brass supports rise from the base, holding two large stylized nibs/pens with feathers, one light and one dark, creating a
