Description

This Louis XV style Provençal commode, dating from the 18th century, is crafted from solid walnut and features three wide drawers on the straight front. It displays a clean and balanced design, characteristic of Provençal furniture of this period, with finely executed molded panels. The period bronze handles and keyhole escutcheons elegantly accentuate the front. The gently rounded uprights, cabriole legs, and the shaped lower rail adorned with a central carved motif attest to high-quality, authentic, and masterful regional craftsmanship. The walnut top, with its molded edge, boasts a deep and warm antique patina acquired over time. The drawers, constructed of softwood with traditional dovetail joints, and the fully paneled back confirm its 18th-century origins, in keeping with the
