Description

Important sterling silver flatware set Mazarin pattern, Puiforcat. Circa 1930 This impressive set comprises three complete or nearly complete table services, allowing for an elegant table setting for twelve guests, from hors d'oeuvre to dessert, including fish service and serving pieces. The pattern is rich and substantial, distinguished by its sumptuous design, with trident fork and spoon bowls and the back featuring the characteristic "rat-tail" reinforcement. Particularly noteworthy is the presence of three knife services with crosier-shaped silver handles, the edges also finished with rat-tail detailing, fitted with both steel and solid silver blades. This is a rare and highly sought-after variant within fine French silverware. The set is preserved in its original fitted canteen, both functional and
