Description

Refined and unique stucco bas-relief decorated in grisaille, with a gray background and red details. The bas-relief depicts the so-called "Triumph of Ariadne": Ariadne, daughter of the king of Crete and later wife and lover of Bacchus, rides on a chariot pulled by panthers, symbols of the god. Ariadne holds a spear and is crowned by a suspended female figure; in front of her are two satyrs, holding bunches of grapes and gazing at her. This bas-relief of great taste and refinement will enhance any space with class and a touch of antiquity.

18th-century Italian craftsmanship.
