Description

Napoleon III drapery necklace in 18k gold, natural pearls, and garnets - France, 19th century.

Description: An elegant drapery necklace from the Napoleon III period, typical of mid-19th-century French jewelry, characterized by a delicate interplay of chains forming supple scallops that naturally follow the line of the neck.

The setting is crafted in 18k yellow gold, finely worked to maintain a light visual appearance and a fluid drape. The design is punctuated by the presence of natural natural pearls, used as pendants and connecting elements, bringing luminosity and refinement to the composition.

The necklace is also adorned with natural garnets, set in bezels within stylized floral motifs. Their deep red hue, highly prized during the Second Empire, lends the piece a warm and elegant
