Description

Late 19th-century Tuscan sofa in solid walnut, a fine example of Italian craftsmanship from the period. The structure features clean, well-balanced lines, enhanced by refined carved details on the uprights, armrests, and lower rail. The walnut wood displays a warm, attractive patina that highlights the quality of construction and harmonious proportions. The seat and backrest are padded and upholstered in a classically patterned fabric, consistent with the original style. Turned legs and shaped armrests lend elegance and lightness to the overall design. A charming and characterful piece, ideal for classic interiors, studies, living rooms, or reception areas, perfect both as an antique furnishing and as a distinctive decorative element.
