Description

Description This modernist bronze sculpture depicts a stylised male head and upper torso rendered through clear geometric simplification. The facial features are constructed from angular planes, with an elongated profile and distinctly articulated nose, brow, and chin. The bronze surface shows a warm brown patina with minor tonal variation, consistent with cast bronze and hand-finished work. The elongated neck and broad, simplified shoulders contribute to a stable and balanced composition. Mounted on a black marble base, the sculpture reflects 20th-century European modernist approaches to figurative form, where emphasis is placed on structure, mass, and abstraction rather than anatomical realism. Artist Signed Fabregat (20th century). Artist Details The sculpture bears a
