Description

Pair of silver and gold bow tie earrings, 1970s. This elegant pair of clip-on earrings features a stylized bow tie design, characteristic of 1970s design, with a strong graphic line and striking sculptural presence. The structure is crafted from solid 925/1000 silver, as evidenced by a hallmark, and finished with radiating geometric facets that emphasize the volumes and give the piece a highly decorative relief. The central section, treated as a semicircle, is covered with a thin layer of 18-karat gold (750/1000), providing an elegant and luminous contrast with the silver. The reverse is signed "la gutà," a signature engraved in the metal, attesting to the artist's hand and non-industrial production. The clip system is sturdy and comfortable, perfectly suited for unpierced ears. The earrings have a beautiful

Gentlemen, a word to those who love their sweethearts or wives: by offering this pair of earrings, you will undoubtedly make them very happy. I highly recommend them. They are exceptionally elegant, fully inspired by the Art Deco style. And you, ladies, don't wait for your gentlemen to give you a gift: I strongly recommend them. Believe me, I live in the land of luxury and I know how to recognize a beautiful woman, even by a pair of earrings. Beauty is a succession of small details that, put together, make all the difference.
