Description

An elegant Louis XVI period dumbwaiter, late 18th century, crafted from solid wood and fruitwood veneer, displaying a beautiful original patina. The octagonal top, delicately framed by a molded gallery, rests on a tapered central column with chamfered corners, highlighted by contrasting veneer panels. The piece exemplifies the sobriety and balance characteristic of the Louis XVI style, which emphasizes geometry and refined proportions. The elegantly curved tripod base ensures perfect stability and adds a touch of lightness to the silhouette. This type of furniture, intended for discreet service during meals or for occasional use, is highly sought after today for its refinement and versatility.
