Description

Large and very beautiful antique oil painting on canvas, still life, depicting a generous bouquet of roses placed on a tabletop, signed lower right, signature difficult to decipher, to identify "M/N. Saubagnol" (?)... French work, late 19th/early 20th century. A mention "Salon 1910" appears on the back of the canvas, confirming a presentation or dating close to that time. The composition is rich, with deep tones and thick brushstrokes, in the tradition of academic floral still lifes of the Belle Époque. The painting is presented in a large original antique wood and stucco frame. Overall dimensions 57x69 cm frame, canvas only 43x55 cm. Very good overall condition, recent varnish, some minor wear and a visible scratch on the right side. The frame has been restored in-house, consolidated and repainted, with some elements
