Description

In a luminous azure blue, this rare drop-leaf serving trolley, crafted in Italian marquetry in the 1960s, embodies with panache the artisanal elegance and decorative refinement characteristic of period furniture. Its finely worked painted wooden structure is enhanced by delicate floral and instrument marquetry, a subtle homage to the decorative tradition of the Italian Renaissance. The discreet and ingenious side leaves allow the serving surface to be expanded as needed, while preserving the harmony of the design. The spoked rear wheels and gilt metal front casters, combined with a turned wooden handle also adorned with gilt metal, facilitate its movement while maintaining its noble appearance. It bears the stamp "Miss Bellevue, Meta di Sorrento, Made in Italy," a testament to its Neapolitan origin and
