Description

An elegant Louis XVI style bouillotte lamp in mahogany and gilt bronze, dating from the 19th century. It rests on a square, molded mahogany base, highlighted with gilt fillets, supporting a fluted column adorned with finely chased bronze elements. The lamp has three arms, harmoniously arranged around the central column, with elegant scrolls and foliate candle holders, each holding a faux candle. The whole is surmounted by its original bouillotte lampshade, made of brown lacquered sheet metal, rimmed with brass, and adjustable in height thanks to a central rod ending in a decorative finial. The lamp boasts very fine craftsmanship, balanced proportions, and a warm patina, characteristic of Louis XVI style furniture and lighting. Style: Louis XVI Period: 19th century Materials: Mahogany and gilt bronze
