Description

The deep, earthy tones in this vast open landscape contrast the dry ground with lush, vibrant green. We can feel the intense summer heat emanating from the hazy sky across this expansive rural terrain, as Benlliure beautifully captures the feeling of the Mediterranean countryside.Known as 'Peppino', meaning 'Cucumber', Jose Benlliure y Ortiz was a Spanish painter born in Rome in 1884. The artist was a son of prominent Spanish painter José Benlliure y Gil, who established his successful career in Rome and went on to be director of the Spanish Academy of Fine Arts, as well as being trained by Joaquín Sorolla. In 1919, Jose Benlliure y Ortiz held an exhibition of 45 paintings in the halls of the Theatre Royal in Madrid, as a tribute to Rome, his birthplace. This highly accomplished artist went on to become
