Description

Sold without a lampshade. Ivory crackle-glazed earthenware lamp, likely by Le Dauphin, very similar to the "Panama Champagne" model from the brand's "Dynasty" range, but much rarer. Vintage 1980s-1990s. Elegant and slender baluster body, enhanced with three gold crackle-glazed enamel rings, a high-end finish reminiscent of Mithé Espelt's work, characteristic of the brand's "Dynasty" line. This quality of enamel gilding could indicate more meticulous workshop work or a limited edition. No signature and label, unfortunately missing. Approximately 40cm total height with the socket, 30cm for the base alone. Good overall condition with a discreet chip in the enamel on the top, traces of an old label on the plastic socket, cord approximately 1.20m long. Approximately 1kg. Functional.
