Description

? An Italian mirror where glass becomes drawing? Italian design by Metalvetro Galvorame. This wall mirror is an iconic piece of 1960s Italian design, produced by Metalvetro Galvorame, a manufacturer renowned for its decorative and architectural glasswork. Unlike framed mirrors, this one stands out with its entirely glass composition, typical of the company. Peripheral decoration in black glass. The mirror has no added frame: the perimeter consists of an integrated black glass motif, forming a continuous graphic design around the central pane. This treatment lends depth, contrast, and elegance, while asserting a resolutely modernist aesthetic. Precise dating and authenticity. An original label on the back, dated February 24, 1966, attests to its authenticity. This precise dating is rare and particularly valued in the Italian vintage design market. Condition and patina. The mirror is in very good overall condition. There are a few small, occasional imperfections in the black glass decoration, visible in the photos, but these do not detract from the visual balance or the clarity of the design. These marks are a testament to its age and history. A striking yet timeless piece. With its large oval shape, this mirror captures light and structures the space. It will find its place naturally in an entryway, living room, or bedroom, whether in a contemporary interior or a vintage or mid-century decor. DIMENSIONS o Width: 89 cm o Height: 59 cm Asking price: EUR480.
