Description

A very beautiful Louis XV style bombé commode, dating from the 20th century. Its elegant lines, warm veneer, and high-quality gilt bronze ornamentation are captivating. The front and sides are harmoniously curved, highlighted by rich, finely chiseled rocaille bronze details: drawer pulls, keyhole escutcheons, corner mounts, and feet. The rosewood and precious wood veneer, arranged in a herringbone pattern, displays beautiful grain patterns and a warm patina. It is topped with a superb, thick (approximately 4 cm) veined marble slab, lending it a striking presence and a truly distinctive decorative character. The commode opens with two drawers without a central divider, offering ample storage space. A working key and locks are included. Very good overall condition. Delivery
