Description: Beautiful painting depicting a bacchanal of putti, attributed to Giulio Carpioni, a master of 17th-century Venetian painting renowned for his mythological and Arcadian scenes. The lively and playful composition shows a group of putti engaged in a joyful outdoor celebration, characterized by dynamic gestures and spontaneous poses. The colours are bright and luminous, with soft tonal transitions that shape the figures and add depth to the scene. The atmosphere is light and theatrical, typical of Carpioni's poetic language, skillfully combining grace, movement, and sensuality. A work of great visual appeal, ideal for enhancing a collection of
