Description

Set of terracotta amphorae
Weathered pottery garden jars
The set of 7 vases has a classic amphora shape with a narrow base, a rounded belly and two or more handles. The patina gives the jars an aged look. The heights of the largest pots are 66 cm (10.4 kg), 61 cm (7.4 kg) and 43 cm (4.3 kg). Originally, amphorae were used in ancient times for transporting and storing liquids and dry goods such as wine, olive oil and cereals. Nowadays, they are mainly used as decorative elements indoors or outdoors, for example in gardens or on terraces.
