Description

Painting dated 1960 by Renoir's only student, Isidore Marie Peyret*, depicting this evening visitor in three-quarter view within a nocturnal and mysterious atmosphere. At first glance, I thought it was a work by Georges Rouault (1871-1958). Mixed media, watercolor and gouache on paper mounted on original canvas. Well framed. The canvas measures 24cm x 16cm. *Isidore-Marie Peyret (1880-1962), born in Orthez, was a friend of the sculptors Wlerick and Despiau and one of Renoir's few students, perhaps even the only one. From his experience, he never betrayed the Impressionist movement, even when he embraced Rouault's Expressionist leanings. Like Renoir, he worked with light and
