Description

Ideal for exchanging vows of love while drinking from the same glass, here is an engraved glass goblet from the early 19th century. On one side, the word "love" is engraved within a garland; on the other, a small altar surmounted by a heart, left blank for the couple's initials to be engraved. Slightly flared, with a small chip (to be filled) on the rim, otherwise in good overall condition, the engraving is very clear.
