Description

- Fountain spout depicting a cast iron faun's mascaron, 20th-century work - The very lively expression of this face is partly due to its pronounced features, such as the wrinkled skin between the eyebrows and around the eyes. The mischievous expression of this faun with goat-like horns is reinforced by its wide, almond-shaped eyes, its excessively puffed cheeks, and its O-shaped mouth, as if about to exhale powerfully. When in use, the water flowing from its mouth adds to the playful nature of its expression. - A second fountain spout forming a pair is also for sale. - Good condition - Dimensions: Height: 28 cm, Width: 20.2 cm, Depth: 7.5 cm
