1 400 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Oak

Length : 258cm

Height : 87,5cm

Depth : 5cm

Description

Pair of large oak transoms dating from the 19th century, arched in a crescent shape. They feature crossbars, themselves arched to follow the curve of the frame. In very good condition, no restoration is needed! Protected from rain, the wood is very sound and completely free of wormholes. A beautiful decorative element, and of precisely identical size, they can be joined to form an oval.
